

Children with Autism Learn How to Play Music

A music learning system that teaches children to read music with shapes and colors

Color Me Mozart is a music learning system designed for all children between the ages of 3 to 10 years old.

Brooklyn. -Color Me Mozart is a new method of teaching music to children using shapes and colors. This method has changed the lives of many students taught by Adrian Edward, Color Me Mozart's creator. Mr. Edward has a degree in Music Education from Hunter College in New York City and is also a pianist and music therapist.

The Color Me Mozart book has a variety of songs where children can learn music through the use of shapes, colors and stickers. Stickers are applied to any keyboard making it simple for a child to associate each shape and color with a musical note.

"The system allows children to learn the language of music through the use of knowledge they already know, shapes and colors, making musical concepts easy to absorb", said Adrian Edward, founder and creator of Color Me Mozart.

Additionally, Mr. Edward stated that this method has helped many children fulfill their dream of learning music. Having developed the system over the past five years in his work as a music therapist for special needs children, Mr. Edward has seen the power that music has in the lives of children with autism, ADHD and other disabilities. This method of learning music also allows for the continued learning of full musical notation.

"I have taught and seen thousands of children over the years, including those with ASD or Austin Spectrum Disorder display an amazing ability of absorbing and connecting with music. Parents are often times amazed that their child can not only learn music, but also use it as a powerful way of communication and expression", said Mr. Edward.

Presently, Adrian Edward is a music therapist at the Guild for Exceptional Children in Brooklyn, NY and a music teacher at the prestigious Collegiate School in New York City. He is currently designing the second book in the Color Me Mozart series of eight books, that are projected to be released in the coming years. Color Me Mozart is seeking the support of various backers and sponsors through a Kickstarter campaign the was recently launched. More information can be found on their website:
